Nightrobed Men and Women Desert St. James.

SALOON IN REAR IN FLAMES

Building Completely Guttled—Firemen Respond Quickly to Alarm—Discovered by Watchman.

Guests in the St. James Hotel, Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, were thrown into a panic about 3:30 o'clock this morning, when a saloon in the rear was discovered afire. The flames leaped high in the air and licked the walls of the hotel. Men and women, clad in night clothes, grabbed street garments and valuables and rushed downstairs to the office and main corridor.

The night clerk and bell boys tried to reassure them. None would return to his or her apartment until the firemen left the scene.

Discovered by Watchman.

The timely discovery of G. T. Queen, the night watchman at the St. James, saved the hotel from fire and probably not a few lives. At 3:35 o'clock this morning he was making his rounds and smelled pine wood burning. He hurried to the alley in the rear of the hotel. From George Goldenstrot's saloon great volumes of thick, black smoke were coming from a second story window. A second or two later flames rushed out.

Queen ran to box 15 and turned in an alarm. Within a few moments almost all the downtown fire department apparatus was on the scene.

Unusual haste was made because the box is located directly in front of the hotel. It was believed the St. James was on fire. Firemen got into action in remarkably short time, and five minutes after the alarm was sounded half a dozen powerful streams were being played upon the burning building.

Flames Spread Rapidly.

The flames spread rapidly despite the great amount of water being thrown upon them. The front door was broken open, and firemen entered with axes and several streams of water. Ladders were run up to the window of the second story back room. The stifling smoke and flames were still rushing out, but with sponges in their mouths, the firemen stood at the opening and shot the water into the room until the flames were extinguished.

A few moments later the men with the axes cut away all the wood on which there was any blaze. The last dying ember was extinguished with chemical water.

The saloon, located at 216 Sixth street northwest, was completely gutted. Many bottles of wine exploded and whiskey ran like water on the floor. The damage is estimated at about $300. The exterior of the small lunch room south of the saloon was also slightly damaged.

BRIGHTWOOD LAWN FETE WILL BE CONTINUED

Owing to the heavy rains the lawn fete of the Brightwood Tent, Knights of the Macabees, scheduled for July 4, 5, 6, and 7, was not held last night or the night before, but will be continued this evening and Saturday and also Monday and Tuesday.

Many members and friends of the Brightwood tent were present on the opening night. Among the many attractions are music, dancing, paddle stand, rag babies, refreshment booths of many kinds, and stands at which fruit and other articles can be bought at reasonable prices.

FORMER SALVATION ARMY WORKER IS FINED $30

Edward Coyte, the former Salvation Army man, who appeared in Judge Scott's court last week, charged with the larceny of some clothes, the property of the army, was this morning fined $30, with the alternative of spending thirty days in the workhouse. As he had not the $30 he stepped back.

Coyte was connected with the Salvation Army for about a year, and a week or so ago he was sent out with a wagon to collect some clothes donated for the use of the army, but failed to arrive at headquarters.

Hot and Wet for Keeps, And There Is No Hope

Rain, Humidity, and High Temperature for Days to Come Is Decried by the Horrid Weather Manufacturer.

Little consolation can one get from the makers of weather over on the hill to the west. No relief is promised for sweltering Washington.

The rain is not over, neither is there any apparent hope that the intense humidity of the past few days will be allayed.

The bright sunshine this morning led many to believe that the "rainy season" had passed. The official forecaster for Uncle Sam said this morning that more showers may be expected tonight, tomorrow and perhaps, like the song of a famous comedian, "The Day After That."

Air Full of Wet.

Rarely has Washington suffered more from pure humidity than in the past few days. The air is laden down with moisture. This, in addition to precipitating the remarkable rain storm of Wednesday and subsequent showers yesterday, makes life in Washington almost unbearable.

The temperature is not high, at least not unreasonably so for this season of the year. The highest mark to which the mercury pointed yesterday at the Weather Bureau was 88 degrees at noon, although if one would have made a guess it would have been to a much higher figure. At 8 o'clock this morning, the thermometer registered 77, and about noon it was getting near yesterday's mark.

Thermometers Don't Lie.

The pranks which the weather plays on Washington is manifest in a comparison of temperatures of the Weather

Bureau and that at Affleck's drug store, Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street, a point where one can usually get a pretty fair idea of what is doing in the weather line.

As a rule, the Weather Bureau thermometer registers a degree or two below that downtown. Yesterday the former went to 88 at noon while the highest temperature registered downtown was between 90 and 94 o'clock when the mercury went only to 83. This proves, beyond a doubt, that it is not really the heat which is prostrating Washington, but the intense humidity. At 11 o'clock today the Weather Bureau mercury pointed to 82 while that downtown registered 80.

Didn't Do a Thing.

The effects of Wednesday evening's storm are to be seen all over the city, particularly in the suburbs, where the water washed loads of dirt into the car tracks and swept away portions of streets. This was the case in Georgetown, too, where the new pavement on Thirty-fifth street was partially washed away. Awnings and fences were blown down and property damaged in a great degree.

Washouts on the Washington, Arlington and Falls Church road caused much inconvenience to travel there. In two places the foundation under the tracks was washed away to such an extent that the cars could not carry passengers over and the latter were compelled to get out and walk the distance of about 50 yards.

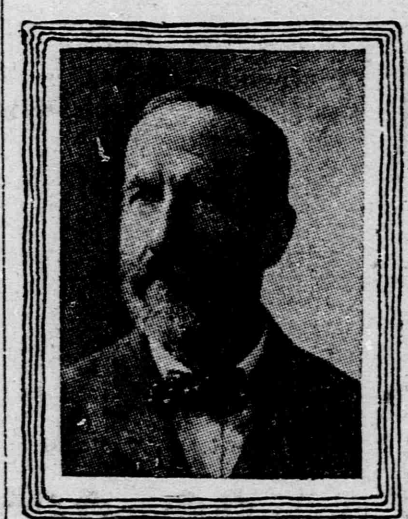

Wires of the Electric Motor Pump and Chemical Company on Congress heights, Anacostia, were burned out and many other and minor effects of the storm were reported.

HAS DONE MUCH TO ADORN CITY

Edifices Erected by James L. Parsons Numerous.

LEARNED TRADE IN KANSAS

Served in Confederate Army and Had Good Record as a Soldier.

JAMES L. PARSONS
Got Contract to Erect New Municipal Building.

James L. Parsons, who has secured the contract to build the new Municipal Building, is one of the Washingtonians who has done much to make the National Capital a city of pretentious edifices. He built Stoneleigh Court, at Connecticut avenue and L street, for the late Secretary Hay; the Marlborough apartment house, on Eighteenth street, near K; the Hubbard Memorial Building, at Sixteenth and M streets; the College of History at the American University, in the suburbs, the Census Office, the Business High School, the addition to Central High School, the Harrison School, the Reform School water tower, the addition to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; the administration building, and two others at Fort Myer; several bank buildings, a number of stores and mills and many private homes.

Although so well identified with Washington, Mr. Parsons was born in Louisiana county, Va., and learned his trade as a carpenter at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He came to this city in 1873, when he was twenty-six years old. He had entered the Confederate army at fifteen, and had a good service record as a soldier before going into business here. After thirty years' work he has made a record of splendid proportions as one of the upbuilders of the National Capital.

Mr. Parsons was twice married, and has the following children: Annie M., Charles W., James L., Jr., Florence, Susan H., and David A. Parsons. He is a Mason of the Blue Lodge, and a member of the Royal Arch Commandery, Mystic Shrine.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

EUGENE P. GARGES' BODY ARRIVES IN WASHINGTON

Reached City Last Night Accompanied by His Brother—Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

The body of Eugene P. Garges, who was drowned on Tuesday by the capsizing of a sail boat on Gull Lake, Mich., arrived at 8:30 last night, accompanied by Samuel J. Garges, a brother of the deceased, and were taken immediately to the family residence, 713 North Carolina avenue northeast.

William H. Garges, another brother of the deceased, is now on his way home from Mexico, and is in ignorance of the sad death of his brother. He will not arrive in time for the funeral.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, from St. Peter's Church, Second and C streets southeast. The Rev. Hugh A. Curley, assistant pastor of the church, will celebrate a requiem mass. The pallbearers have been selected from the members of the Sigma Chi fraternity, of which Mr. Garges was a member, as follows: Messrs. Edwin Evans, Vivian Everett, Max Winter, Robert Wade, and Lee Hyson. Interment will be at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES DO PHILANTHROPIC WORK

The employees of the navy yard will this summer repeat their philanthropic work of last season by taking 500 children and mothers, who seldom, if ever, are able to afford a day's outing, to River View. The party will be arranged for by the summer outings committee of the Associated Charities, but all expenses will be met by the employees of the navy yard.

SLY JAPANESE STOLE RING IN BALTIMORE

When Caught Here He Said He Took it to Get Even With His Employer.

Wanted in Baltimore on a charge of grand larceny, S. Kande, alias "George Hall," a diminutive, sportily dressed Japanese, was arrested on Pennsylvania avenue northwest, this morning, by Detectives Hartigan and Baur, of the Central Office.

He was sent to the Sixth precinct, where he was detained until a detective from Baltimore arrived and took him back to the Monumental City to stand trial for his alleged crime.

Captain Boardman received a dispatch several days ago from Marshal Farnam, of Baltimore, in which the latter asked that a sharp lookout be maintained for the Japanese. A minute description was given, and the local men were instructed to "pick up the Jap."

It is alleged by Marshal Farnam that Kande, while employed as a butler in private residence in Baltimore, stole a four-stone diamond ring worth $20. He was suspected several days ago and was suspected that he came to Washington to join the United States navy. Yesterday the ring was found in a local pawnshop, and the detectives were sure the suspected man was in Washington. When Hartigan and Baur took their midday meal at Police Headquarters, he had about $100 in his pockets. Asked if he took the ring Kande is said to have replied:

"Certainly. My mistress owed me four months' salary and I took the ring to square up accounts. I will return to Baltimore because I don't think I'll be sent down."

HELD UNDER HEAVY BOND.

Bond in the sum of $500 was fixed by Judge Scott, in the United States branch of the Police Court this morning, when he held James Taylor, colored, for the action of the grand jury. It is alleged that the prisoner broke into the store of William Lee, 502 R street northwest several nights ago and stole a quantity of clothing.

CAR JUMPS TRACK ANOTHER STRIKES IT

One Man Injured and Other Passengers Frightened by Accident.

Pandemonium reigned at Eighteenth street and Florida avenue northwest, about 7 o'clock last night when a northbound car on the Capital Traction line struck the curve while going at an excessive rate of speed, jumped the track and was run into by a southbound car.

The conveyances were both well filled with persons going to and returning from Chevy Chase. J. E. Baker, of 340 Eighth street, and a passenger on the car which crashed into the other, was the only person injured. All others were thoroughly frightened.

Just at that moment the motorman on car No. 2 was feeling his way slowly down the hill. The front of his car struck the side of the one that had left the tracks. Men, women, and children screamed and clung to both cars. They fell on top of one another, and some rolled down the steep incline.

Back in a crash. In endeavoring to get to a place of safety he fell and was severely bruised about the head and neck.

He refused to go to any hospital, but was assisted to his home.
